STORY

During the first game, Real Follower Diagnosis, Yuma Mukai and Ayame Kamijo were saved by their chance following of one another. In each of the ensuing contests—The Dislike Game, R.A. Live Game, and Appease the Attention Seeker—they've used a mix of wisdom, teamwork, and luck to survive to the end. In game four, Operation: Reply or Regret, the team fought off grueling fatigue to complete a full stamp collection, only to have Mizuki Kurashina interfere right at the end and dash their hopes. Undeterred, Yuma took advantage of the game's rules to kill off the Marble controlling the game, which allowed Yuma to escape death's grasp once again...

I can't stand being shackled by my wife any longer. She flies off the handle if I don't eat dinner at home. She's even forcing me to do all this his-and-hers crap. It's absolutely repulsive to me. If I could just get her out of the picture, I could finally get together with T-chan down in Office Services. I'll give you 30% of her insurance money if you succeed.

Someone please help me. I'm serious.

【INTRODUCTION】

This document is my plan for me, Ayame Kamijo, to exact my revenge on the three of my classmates—Akiho Senda, Sae Hamura, and Yumika Kamada—who ruined my life with their bullying. On the right, you see Senda sending me that "Verdict: Death" stamp—well, I'm the executioner now, bitch!!!!! (Angry beyond all belief!!!!!)

I'll make all of them pay. Thanks to them, I can no longer sleep at night, and I can't attend school any longer, either. Even now, when I close my eyes, their faces float into my mind, their eyes sneering at me. Their laughing voices. The endless torment they messaged me. There was a while when I couldn't even eat anything; I would just throw all of it back up. I remember reading somewhere that trying to get revenge wasn't a positive way to go through life. But the only thing I know is that this is absolutely necessary for me in order to make any forward progress.
This grudge of mine must be avenged!!!

Of course, I can't show this operation plan to anybody (If I did, it'd kill me!!), so this is just to keep everything ordered in my head and make sure this anger never subsides! I'm using this note-taking app and gradually adding to it over time. It'll be my new life's work, the fodder I use to sustain myself.

VERDICT: DEATH

'll it take for you to forgive me?

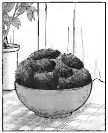
DEATH DEATH DEATH DEATH DEATH DEATH

Closed girls' communities are a total pain in the ass. I'm never doing it again.

【CAUTIONS】

First off, for all three of them, do a thorough investigation into their movements. Since I'm not going to school, I've got plenty of time on my hands (evil grin) / Change into a new outfit every time I'm tailing them. Be careful with fingerprints and wear gloves whenever I can / I lost my target today when I had to take a bathroom break. Better keep an eye on my liquid intake / Add in more cautions as I think of them. This operation needs to be perfect.

【POISON MOSS CULTIVATION RECORD】



↑ Red soresin moss cultivation in progress. It's so cute, you wouldn't believe there was a lethal poison inside! ♡

I obtained a supply of red soresin moss from an overseas website. Given that cultivating plants is kind of my hobby, I use this site all the time, so nobody in my family suspects a thing (grin). Mixing this moss with camellia oil in a certain ratio creates a lethal poison that creates symptoms of dehydration...! It looks almost exactly like food poisoning, and it can't be detected by scientific testing (at least, that's what the net says). One miscalculation, though: there isn't anywhere near enough moss! I am such an idiot.. If I keep on ordering more, both my family and the supplier might start suspecting me. I'll have to raise this moss to create more of it. I've done it before. It should be a piece of cake.

 It's been a month. Things aren't going well. The heat's making the red soresin moss start to die out! I was so focused on tailing my targets that I stopped paying much attention to it.. I quickly moved it under the AC vent, but it'll dry up really quickly under there, so I have to water it over twice as much as usual.

 My red soresin moss has finally recovered, there's about as much as what I first ordered. If this keeps up, I should have enough by October to make the quantity of extract I need. Just one step away!!

 It's mission complete for my moss cultivation. With all the work I put into it, I'm sure it's feeling my tender, loving care by now.. although given that I'm raising this in order to poison three people, I'm not sure it's the healthiest thing for it. Still cute, though. I'll keep an eye on its progress for a little longer.

Why do people hurt each other?
Why can't we all live with mutual respect for each other, the way that plants do?

OPERATION: MURDER!!!

!!!WARNING!!! THIS GOES WITHOUT SAYING, BUT SINCE THIS IS SUPER A-LEVEL CLASSIFIED MATERIAL, ANYONE WHO LAYS EYES ON THIS BESIDES ME SHOULD BE PREPARED FOR A QUICK, INEVITABLE DEATH!

【MURDER METHOD → POISONING】

My existence. My brother's existence. Other people's existence. Red soresin moss's existence. What does existence really mean?

TARGETS

AKIHO SENDA

SAE HAMURA

YUMIKA KAMADA

After careful scrutiny of all possible methods (having little in the way of strength, I immediately discounted anything involving a weapon), I came to the conclusion that poisoning would be ideal. For the poison, I decided to take an extract made from poison moss and make it look like a bad case of food poisoning. The raising of this moss will be covered in the "Poison Moss Cultivation Record" section.

There are two issues to tackle. First off, it'd be unnatural for all three of them to get sickened in separate incidents, so I'll need to find a situation where they're all eating or drinking at the same time and place. Second, the poison made from red soresin moss is a very dark red in color, emits a foul odor, and is bitter to the point that it numbs your tongue. I'll need to mix it with something just as bitter (something like coffee) to make sure they fully digest it.

Following dogged research, I now have a general picture of the activity patterns of all three. They drink tea together pretty often (I used to be part of that group. Now they're all just sitting there, having fun, acting soooooooooooooooooooooooo[...]oooooooo happy as if I wasn't even there in the past. They probably think of hurting me and scaring me away from school as, like, "Ha ha ha, oh yeah, I guess we did that, huh? That was hilarious!" Well, thanks a lot for instilling the urge to kill in me, you bastards!).

Anyway.. Yumika takes her coffee black because she's soooo grown up, but Sae and Akiho are still little kids, so they drink all this girlish sweet stuff like macchiatos and iced frappes and so on. More to the point, I don't know how I'm going to mix poison into something prepared at the café. I can't be identifiable on the scene. What about a way to make them absorb it through the skin instead of orally? (Forget about injecting it)? That'll make it tougher to pursue the food poisoning cover, but I'm sure there are poisons that work on a time delay, so it might just work. Akiko got some moisturizing cream from her boyfriend (that fancy-ass, self-absorbed dick. I couldn't say it at the time, but I'll say it here: Your boyfriend is a lame-ass piece of shit!!!).

Anyway.. She rubs that cream from her boyfriend on her hands a lot, so maybe I could replace that with a little something of my own making. That won't be as effective as an oral dose, but it should probably take its toll as she rubs it on her. Sae always uses the same brand of lip balm, and Yumika's got her favorite gum, too. Gum, huh... If I gave out poisoned gum samples in disguise on the street, maybe she could get an oral dose that way... They already know my face, though, so I don't think hand anything over to them would work... I probably need to consider this a little longer. There's no need to hurry things along..

Crap. I read an article on the net that if the extract from red soresin moss is exposed to oxygen for too long, the poison effect starts to wear out... That means I'm pretty limited in my approach. It might be time to consider other types of poison. It looks like mixing two parts egg-yolk moss with eight parts of bamboo-peel moss forms a type of nerve poison. It's illegal to cultivate that in Japan and pretty much everywhere else, though, so there's no way a high-school teen like me could ever get her hands on that.

There are apparently examples of bamboo-peel moss growing on elm-tree bonsai plants if they're raised the right away. That might be another path to pursue...

I want to hear "see you later".

SEPTEMBER 8
Something about this operation plan feels so calming to me as I write it. It's a secret belonging to me, and me alone, in the palm of my hand. Whenever I sit back and think to myself "I swear I'll kill all of them!", it's like an enormous weight just floats away, right off of my heart. I know I shouldn't whine too much, but [...] I guess I'm a prett awful girl. I know I'm a little too dark a lot of the time for most people. But if I can't keep myself that way, I feel like I'm going to [...] Yeah, you see? I'm not dark at all (late night revelation) ...Let's go to sleep.

SEPTEMBER 14
Sigh... I'm tired of tailing them. (What a way to start this entry, huh?) I'm starting to get the feeling that someone's been repositioning my smartphone on my desk I take my hands off it and [...] Did my big brother see this file? I mean, I have a password lock on this phone, of course, but [...] If he saw this... he's going to ha me. Maybe I should change my password. Oh, but will he think I'm being weird to do that? Oh, but if he does, that means he's already seen inside. What should I do

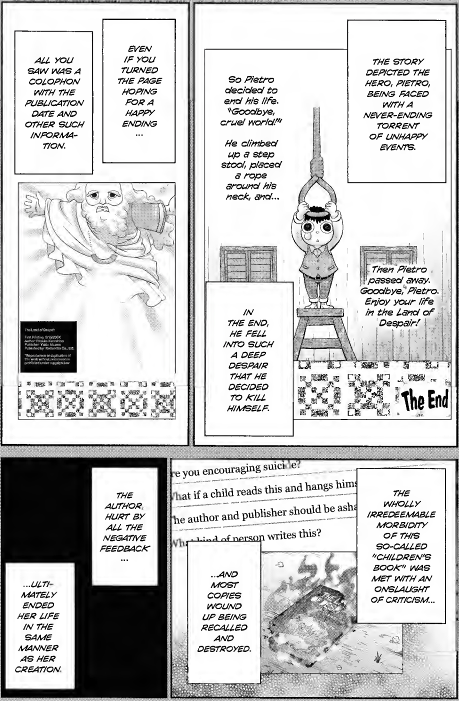
The Truth Behind the Land of Despair



THE STORY DEPICTED THE HERO, PIETRO, BEING FACED WITH A NEVER-ENDING TORRENT OF UNHAPPY EVENTS.
IN THE END, HE FELL INTO SUCH A DEEP DESPAIR THAT HE DECIDED TO KILL HIMSELF.
So Pietro decided to end his life. "Goodbye, cruel world!"
He climbed up a step stool, placed a rope around his neck, and...
Then Pietro passed away. Goodbye, Pietro. Enjoy your life in the Land of Despair!

WHY ...
...ARE THE PAGES SO THIN?

MOST CHILDREN'S BOOKS ARE PRINTED ON HEAVY PAPER SO THE BOOKS DON'T GET TOO DAMAGED AFTER BEING HANDLED BY KIDS.
WHY'S THE PAPER SO THIN FOR THIS ONE, THOUGH ...?
"WHY" ...?
DON'T YOU THINK IT'S TOO SLIM FOR A 40-PAGE BOOK? IT'S 'CAUSE THE PAGES THEMSELVES ARE THIN.

All of us at R.A. Matome News have been working hard to track down the bodies of the players taken from their own homes. Just yesterday, this reporter brought you exclusive media from inside the Kashiwagi Research Laboratory, following a daring undercover investigation. (→SPECIAL Pursuing the Stolen Player Bodies!! Thread 15 SHOCKING)

After spending the previous night inside the lab, we've made it to the office of the laboratory head and discovered something truly shocking: A photograph of lab boss Chitose Kashiwagi, her husband and assistant Shin Kashiwagi, and— astoundingly— a young Yuma Mukai, in the flesh!

So far, Mukai's survived the R.A. games in dazzling fashion, playing the hero and saving other players from certain death. In his latest adventure in the "Great Flaming Festival" we've seen a glimpse into his past, his sudden transformation, and now this photo. ith this latest discovery, we've seen his reputation take an immense hit.

I haven't been on Twitter or the like too much lately. As a result, the days seem a lot longer to me all of a sudden—I have a hunch this is doing wonders for my work efficiency. You might call it "digital detox," but maybe it's time that you take a moment to re-evaluate your social-media life, too. It might just help you open your eyes to different ideas and new relationships.

ANZU-AME

Anzu-ame is another traditional festival food-stall item around eastern Japan. It consists of sliced fruit—usually apricots, but also pineapples and oranges—covered in sweet, sticky mizuame liquid and frozen on top of a block of ice, a bit like a freshly-made candied apple without as much time required for consumption.

BOWING CONVENIENCE STORE CLERKS

This scene is based on current events at the time of publication. In December 2014, four people went into a Hokkaido 7-Eleven late at night and got into an argument with the teenaged clerk after she allegedly served them hot coffee whey they had asked for iced. They made her kowtow to them on the floor for upwards of 20 minutes and threatened to call for the rest of their gang to invade the store. They also took cell-phone video, which naturally leaked to the net and led to all four being identified and arrested.

Shunya's metrosexual fashion and references in this email indicates that he works for a "host club," a place where women can choose a male companion and pay for their company, usually flirting and enjoying drinks with them. Sex is not part of the equation so much as companionship and an enjoyable evening together, although relationships are free to happen off-hours. Such clubs are found primarily in the entertainment districts of big cities like Tokyo and Osaka.

A FULL RECORD OF YOUR "DATES" WITH TEENAGE PROSTITUTES !!

"DATES"

To be exact, Osamu is engaging in what's called enjo kousai in Japanese, or "compensated dating"—a bit of a euphemism for an older man giving money or fancy gifts to girls, ranging from teenage to adult, in exchange for companionship and often (but not always) sexual favors. Enjo kousai became widely known in Japan during the 1990s, partly thanks to the country's vague prostitution laws up to that time; it only became formally outlawed in 1999.
